Navigation Bar Changes

What happened to the tabs?

Intuit has made a few changes to the Navigation bar.

1. The navigation bar is now customizable.
2. Links to specific forms (called bookmarks) can be added to the navigation bar.
3. The tabs in the various Centers (Customer, Vendor, Products/Services, etc.) have been eliminated.

1. Customizing the navigation bar

The navigation bar can be customized to display only those links that are used frequently.

Click the pencil icon next to MENU on the navigation bar.

Uncheck the boxes next to links you do not want displayed.

Click and drag the icon next to a link to move in within the menu list.

Click More at the bottom of the MENU list to open links not displayed.

2. Adding links to forms or pages on the navigation bar

Links to frequently used forms or pages can now be added to the navigation bar as BOOKMARKS.

Click the pencil icon next to BOOKMARKS on the navigation bar.

Check the box next to form or page you want displayed on the navigation bar.

Click and drag the icon next to the bookmark to reorder the bookmarks list.

3. Drawers replace tabs

Previously, a set of drawers would appear when a link was clicked on the navigation bar. The drawer names would be repeated as tabs at the top of the page. You could access a page using either the drawer or the tab. For example, the Sales (or Invoicing) link looked like this:

In the most recent software release, when a link on the navigation bar (other than Reports) is clicked, the navigation bar collapses, replaced by a list of drawers. For example, the Sales (or Invoicing) link now looks like this:

The tabs are no longer available. Instead, the various pages are accessed exclusively using the drawers. To return to the navigation bar, click the > icon. (As of January 2023, tabs are still available in Reports.)
